Anotation: The book deals with the history and development of the magazine, which, after its beginnings related to historiography, gradually developed as an archival one. The treated thematic units are accompanied by numerous illustrations and statistical tables. In addition to the development of archival science as a discipline, the development of the profession and the Croatian State Archives as a journal publisher are also monitored. In the bibliography, several thousand bibliographic items have been processed and 109 biographies of important authors have been adopted

 Anotation: The book contains previously unknown information about the participation of Dalmatians in the First World War. Based on the analysis of reports and lists of losses of the Ministry of War of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, periodicals as well as recent scientific literature, the author collected the names and identified by name 19,300 Dalmatians and one Dalmatian who participated or died in the First World War. The data were collected with the so-called Verlustliste – List of losses, from the website of the Vienna War Archive (Kriegsarchiv Wien).

 Anotation: Ambitiously conceived, the book Franjo Tuđman: chronology of life and work 1922 - 1999 is a huge undertaking of retired general Krešimir Kašpar and his capital work. In 11 large chapters, the author presented the life and work activity of the first president of the Republic of Croatia, recording it day by day, year by year - from the assumption of office until his death. Ten years of Tuđman's work in one place!

 Naslov Igor Karaman : život, djelo i doprinos ekonomskoj povijesti Hrvatske
 Impresum Zagreb : Plejada, 2023.
 Materijalni opis 238 str. : ilustr. ; 23 cm.
 ISBN 9789537782757 : EUR 26.90 US$ 29.90
 Anotation A study on the life and work of Igor Karaman (Split, 1927 - Zagreb, 1995) has been published, written on the basis of detailed research into his personal heritage, which is kept in the Croatian State Archives. The eminent Croatian historian Mira Kolar-Dimitrijević does not only speak about this personality, one of the central figures in Croatian historiography of the second half of the 20th century. This book, based on the author's personal knowledge, also shows the development of Croatian museology, archival studies, education, institutions, societies and associations in which Karaman was active, and speaks most extensively about the progress and decline of Croatian historiography, especially economic history, in the context of the time in which Long live Karaman.

Author Čorić, Valentin
 Title In vino libertas : autobiografski zapisi iz Haaga
 Impresum Zagreb : Naklada Pavičić, 2024.
 Description 296 str. ; 20 cm.
 ISBN 9789537949105 : EUR 23.30 US$ 26.10
 Anotation In vino libertas! A drop of wine as a drop of freedom. This is what this book, written in a solitary cell in The Hague prison, is about, about how in ten years, under the nose of the strict prison administration, Čorić produced more than 1,200 liters of very good wine (which was confirmed by the administration itself by submitting the confiscated quantities for analysis). About that, but also about growing up and schooling, about clashes with the Yugoslav police, about sports and theater career...

Description 138 str. : ilustr. ; 23 cm.
ISBN 9789537746629 : EUR 18.60 US$ 20.80
Anotation The scientific study Odesa 1917. iz hrvatske perspektive is the work of Đuro (George) Veljko Grlica, a Croatian historian who spent his entire working life in emigration in the United States and Canada, worked as an assistant at Indiana University in Bloomington, and since the 1960s as a librarian at Harvard, then in Canada at the University Library of the University of Alberta, and from the end of the 1970s at the American Research Institute in Geneva. The study represents a significant contribution to Croatian historiography, primarily on the issue of Croatian prisoners from the First World War period and, in a broader picture, the political situation and changes in the area of Croatian lands. The author approached the topic from several aspects; the history of diplomacy, Croatian emigration, and Croatian and European political history through which he interprets the issue of solving the Croatian question.

Anotation Vuk Perišić's book Pojedinač i povijest follows the life path of the title character, an almost ideal citizen, a person who is aware that he must engage in order to fight for democracy and democracy. Through the life of a man who is always close to the center, but never in the center, Vuk Perišić writes a unique, different, very accurate, and very personal history of our spaces, our ideals and delusions, moral victories and human failures.

Anotation Katarina Peović basically deals with unmasking the order, exposing its camouflage means and techniques, illuminating its fogs, seeing through its ideological tricks, and then — in the good atheistic tradition — and desacralizing all those liturgical chants under which the daily exploitation and production of injustice takes place... (With this book) the author confirms herself (again) as one of the rare phenomena on the Croatian intellectual scene, and quite unique on the political one, to which must be added the tenacious — and "yes, stubborn" — struggle for the public presence of the ideas she represents, despite the brutal attacks that is regularly exhibited.

Anotation Goran Hutinec, based on rich original material, shows how the mass persecution of civilians in the NDH and Velika župa Zagorje was an autochthonous phenomenon, designed and carried out for the most part under Ustasha direction, with the secondary contribution of their Nazi allies. That violence, which very quickly escalated into genocide against Jews, Serbs and Roma, was not a reaction to actions against the Ustasha government or the NDH, but a direct consequence of fascism-inspired ideas about the need for racial and national "cleansing" as a prerequisite for political and social harmony.

 Anotation The topic of the famous naval battle that took place in front of the town of Vis on July 20, 1866 was often the subject of research and writing within Croatian, but also Austrian, Italian and other European historiographies. The fact that the inferior Austrian fleet led by Rear Admiral Wilhelm Tegetthoff defeated the superior Italian fleet, led by Admiral Carlo Persano, remained deeply rooted in the political, cultural and social life of the second half of the 19th and the beginning of the 20th century.

 Anotation In this detailed specialist study, the author Emir O. Filipović places the spread and affirmation of chivalric culture in medieval Bosnia in the European context of the time, paying particular attention to intermediaries of chivalry from the West in Bosnia, among which the Dalmatian communes and the Hungarian-Croatian Kingdom are in the first place. Analyzing numerous available sources, including archival ones from eleven archives across Europe, the author writes about the title of knight and the people who wore it in medieval Bosnia, about knightly ideals, standard of living, knightly games and orders, the ruler as a knight, weapons and equipment of the Bosnian knights and the symbols of chivalry in heraldry and its traces in onomastics.

 Anotation On the basis of earlier research by Josip Leonard Tandarić and Marija Agnezija Pantelić, Dr. Jozo Vela discovers within the preserved corpus of Croatian Church Slavonic texts a literary tradition created on the basis of Latin textual templates which, according to specific linguistic features, is clearly separated from the rest of Croatian Glagolitic literature and, considering the development of Glagolitic in Croatian area, places it earlier than previously established opinions. Undoubtedly, this is the largest textological research of Church Slavonic texts undertaken so far. The book was written as a kind of extended scientific study and is primarily intended for Croatian and foreign Paleo-Slavists. Due to the fact that it deals with different linguistic phenomena, it can be useful for Croatianists and other linguists, especially those who deal with historical linguistics.

Anotation The themes of Karakaš's plays are the same as those in prose. He is really interested, let's paraphrase Rudolf Bičanić, in how the people live, their peasants and workers, incomplete students, unemployed youth, war invalids, the elderly without a decent pension, alcoholics, children from dysfunctional families, abusers. He wonders if these people, from whom literature and theater flee, have bread and water, what should be done to make them equal in material conditions and in political life with other layers of society, what should be done to abolish the privileges of the city over the countryside, trade and banking over small agriculture and craftsmanship, capital over labor, the rich over the poor.

Djela Miroslava Krleža – Works of Miroslav Krleža

Školska knjiga and Hrvatska akademija znanosti i umjetnosti are the publishers of the book-series Djela Miroslava Krleža - a project of national importance that will include 28 volumes of prose, poetry, dramatic texts, essays, feuilletons and writings of the great writer in four rounds.

Every work by Krleža from the book-series Djela Miroslava Krleža is enriched with a review of literary science by academician Krešimir Nemeć, which will contribute in a new way to a better reading and understanding of the works of the giants of Croatian literature.

The first, equipped set of Djela Miroslava Krleža contains seven volumes - the five-volume novel Zastave, the last edition of which was published in 2000, and the poetry collection Balade of Petrice Kerempuha and the book of political essays Deset krvavih godina, last published in 1971.

 ISBN 9789530623156 : EUR 29.10 US$ 32.60

Anotation Balade Petrice Kerempuha (Petrica Kerempuh's ballads) are undoubtedly Krleža's magnum opus, trademark, symbol, brand. They are much more than a collection of poems, because the writer's literary, cultural, linguistic and ideological program is articulated in them. They appeared in 1936, in a turbulent historical moment of forebodings of general infernalization (the rise of fascism, the civil war in Spain) and shone with full brilliance that has not dimmed to this day. On the contrary!

Description 720 str. ; 21 cm.
 Serie Djela Miroslava Krleža ; knj. 6
 ISBN 9789530623149 : EUR 46.50 US$ 52.10

Anotation The book of political essays Deset krvavih godina (Ten Bloody Years), last published in 1971, is a meticulous erudite analysis of Croatian political and cultural life over the centuries. A true "Krležian" book full of daring theses, prophetic visions, subversion... Ten Bloody Years is a unique work of great intellectual penetration, which for more than half a century has not entered the innermost circle of Krleža's canonical works, even though it is precisely in these essays that Krleža's passionate, almost obsessive engagement with the Croatian national question can be seen.

Author Krleža, Miroslav

 Book serie Djela Miroslava Krleža ; knj. 1-5

ISBN 9789530623088 : EUR 174.40 US$ 195.30

Anotation The five-volume novel Zastave contains more than 1,900 pages, so it can rightly be said that Zastave is not only Krleža's most extensive work, but also one of the most extensive novels in Croatian literature.

Krleža's novel Zastave is an exhaustive fictionalized chronicle of social events, a political, cultural and artistic evocation of the epoch. The action takes place in a wide area that includes the Slavic, Germanic, Hungarian and Mediterranean worlds.

Djela Marije Jurić Zagorke – Works of Marija Jurić Zagorka

The new edition Djela Marije Jurić Zagorke, the master of historical romances who has been delighting generations of readers for a whole century with her delightful stories, has been published in a contemporary style by the designer Tessa Bachrach Krištofić.

Grička vještica ; sv. 1-7
Anotation Grička vještica is a popular six-part novel cycle by Marija Jurić Zagorka, which consists of the novels The Secret of the Bloody Bridge, Countess Nera, Malleus maleficarum, The Rival of Maria Theresa, The Court Camarilla and The Rebel on the Throne.
The plot of Grička vještica is set in the stormy 18th century. A branching and very intricate plot in addition to a basic historical story, seasoned with love plots and intrigues, Zagorka regularly provides a broad panorama of Croatian society and its class stratification, while expertly connecting ideological turmoil and battles at court with the contemporary situation.

Description 332 str. ; 23 cm.
Serie Djela Marije Jurić Zagorke ; sv. 1
ISBN 9789530623460 : EUR 26.60 US$ 29.80
Anotation Secularity as the dominant ideological subtext of Zagorka's popular romance Kći Lotrščaka is highlighted by the very symbolism of the title phrase. At the same time, the noun "daughter" refers to the figure of Manduša, the illegitimate daughter of the old Plemenščak, who in her name symbolically carries the legend of the origin of the name of the Manduševac spring and the city of Zagreb, while the famous Lotrščak tower and bell are the bearers of the romantic idealization of the most famous building in the civic part of the old city.

Anotation This collection of the double winner of the SFERA award contains seven war stories with fantastical elements, or it can be said another way - seven fantastical stories set in the environments of various wars, of which there was certainly no shortage in our country. In them you will meet ancient Illyrian warriors; Croatian Home Guards from the time of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy; partisans, Germans and Italians from the Second World War; Croatian veterans from the Homeland War; members of opposing nations and armies in the Bosnian mountains...

Description 142 str. ; 21 cm.
ISBN 9789533515090 : EUR 19.30 US$ 21.40
Anotation Gospođa O. (Mrs. O.) is a housewife, mother, wife and literary translator, and her world is a powerful introspective female world; we follow the events in her family, her relationship with her husband, raising and caring for her child, caring for her parents, and many seemingly insignificant moments of everyday life are exactly those small events in which the magic of life and of this lyrical-philosophical novel by Tatjana Gromača is revealed.

Impresum Zagreb : Filmic, 2023.
Description 401 str. ; 22 cm.
ISBN 9789535079507 : EUR 23.30 US$ 26.10
Anotation Although the novel is primarily an intimate story about the search for happiness, about the origin of evil, love, responsibility towards oneself and others, friendship and sacrifice, it is also a story about society and Croatia today. The novel opens up topics that are important for today's transitional society, such as the impossibility of an individual living with dignity from his work in a society where the cards are unfairly dealt at the start.

 Description 350 str. ; 21 cm.
 ISBN 9789535206200 : EUR 18.10 US$ 20.10
 Anotation It is difficult to say whether Kronika o Velom mistu is a story about several dramatic decades in Split disguised as the history of Hajduk, or whether it is a story about a mythical football club disguised as a serious librarian about the past of a famous city that, as we know, is not even close to London . But who cares? First and foremost, this is a book about small people from a small town, who will found a small club. And as time passes, all of them and all of theirs will grow. Some of the credit for that magical unfolding also goes to the soul, that is, to the glory of their chronicler.

 Description 308 str. ; 21 cm.
 ISBN 9789535206187 : EUR 18.10 US$ 20.10
 Anotation The writer has placed a little misto on an unnamed island near Split, which is neither Šolta nor Brač, although it could be both. And it could be quite the third, far from our sea, but closer to some other Mediterranean coasts. Although he wrote a story soaked to the core with distinctive local colors and smells, Miljenko Smoje managed to create a world open to adoption, in which every Mediterranean will discern something from his experience. And those who cannot be called such, because they were born or live further north than the sunny shores, in that insular community full of colorful characters, they will see enough reasons to regret forever that they drew the wrong card in life's lottery, so they are now suffering in some gray area which is filled with reserved, boring, inconspicuous, deadly serious people.

 Anotation Mali romani (Little Novels), a book of stories by the versatile and ubiquitous book, film and theater man Tahir Mujičić, seems to mislead you with its title. Because in it, Zagreb's past, which is simultaneously described, recreated and created for the first time, written down, has a novelistic momentum: each story contains the germ, a summary of a larger, more extensive story, and all of them together form a series of more or less connected chapters about the life of one generation in Zagreb in the second half of the twentieth century and – no less – a portrait and history of that city itself.

 Impresum Zaprešić : Fraktura, 2024.
 Description 264 str. ; 21 cm.
 ISBN 9789533586915 : EUR 24.70 US$ 27.40
 Anotation This is not a book about any of the many wars we have experienced. This is not a book about war at all. This is a book about a city under siege and about people under siege. Internal and external. The city is the space that they all inhabit. The city is the nervous system and bloodstream of each of these people. Each chapter can be read as a separate story, but each story is completed only in the entirety of War. War is like a clock and a calendar, a book of precise chronology. Its dramaturgy derives from chronology, as it does in every war, as well as in mental illness that simulates war. The war should be read in order, because that is the only way to find a way out of the war, a way out of the city under siege.

 ISBN 9789533586632 : EUR 24.70 US$ 27.40
 Anotation In this fictional interior portrait based on the historical record, Slavenka Drakulić brings Mileva Marić Einstein to life. Theory of Sorrow is an attempt to understand the decisions and actions and ultimate trajectory of this woman of exceptional intelligence and promise. Mileva Einstein, née Marić, always outstanding yet always an outsider, from a wealthy family in Vojvodina, a territory of Austria-Hungary at the time, was destined for the greatest scientific achievements—a brilliant mathematician, only the fifth woman to attend the elite and demanding Zurich Polytechnic School. But her theory of sorrow was as weighty as any theory of relativity, and far more commonly experienced.

 Anotation Classified as part of the "second academic generation" of Croatian architects and one of the initiators of the founding of the Club of Croatian Architects, Vjekoslav Bastl undoubtedly belonged to a separate breed of architects because he added esoteric features to architecture, otherwise a strictly socially determined discipline, expressed by the unique power of decorative metaphor. In addition, he was a passionate astrologer who for seven years in a row published astrological articles under the pseudonym "Uranus" in the spiritualist monthly Novo sunce, and then in the daily press.
