Plitvice Lakes National Park, where forests, water and stone have created an epic landscape dotted with a procession of 16 lakes and waterfalls created by the deposition of tufa, a special type of limestone. As the oldest, largest and most visited Croatian national park, the Plitvice Lakes are among the first in the world to be included in the UNESCO World Heritage List.

 Anotation This is the first book in Croatia entirely dedicated to Croatian female philosophers. It is the result of many years of research systematically carried out at the Institute of Philosophy in Zagreb. Since it is the first overview of the lives and works of Croatian female philosophers, this book has the form of a reader: more original quotes from female philosophers are included than is usual in overviews of the history of philosophy, and yet less than is done in anthologies or chrestomathies. The book offers an overview of the life, works and main philosophical thoughts of each female philosopher.

 Title Hrvatski nacionalni simboli : Postanak, razvoj, uporaba i kontroverze
 Impresum Zagreb : Matica hrvatska, 2024.
 Description 503 str. ; 20 cm.

 UDC 929.6(497.5) * 929.921(497.5)
 Anotation Mario Jareb's book Hrvatski nacionalni simboli (Croatian national symbols) is a comprehensive analytical study of the history of Croatian coats of arms and flags from their origin to the present day. The national coat of arms and flag are an important symbolic expression of national identity, so the Croatian national coat of arms and flag as national and state symbols are an important part of Croatian national and state identity and reflect the complex processes of national integration that culminated in the creation of an independent Croatian state.

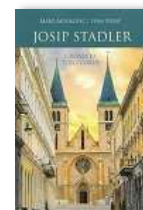

Author Šimić, Ivica, redatelj
 Title Igra u beskonačnost : studije slučaja, analize i prilozi za novu kazališnu pedagogiju za djecu i mlade
 Impresum Zagreb : Meandarmedia, 2024.
 Description 220 str. ; 20 cm.
 ISBN 978953343334 : EUR 25.50 US$ 27.50
 UDC 37.015:729 * 792-053.2
 Anotation In his writings from and around the scene, Šimić proves that the consequences of the current, rigid upbringing in China are disastrous for children and that the resulting chasms in their personalities and in their souls caused by the lack of play cannot be compensated for or filled by anything else. Play is a child's job, says the author, and that is the shortest motto that expresses the intention of this inspired book, which is also poignant and deeply emotional in places, just like the author himself. Spending his time, staring into the depths of the stage, thinking about the enigmatic intention of the nature of the theater, the author actually describes himself and his life's mission to us in many lines, as well as between them. He was just as passionately devoted to her during his life and work.

Title Ikona jedne ideologije : život i djelo Rudija Supeka
Impresum Zagreb : Školska knjiga, 2024.
Description 698 str. ; 21 cm.
ISBN 9789530624528 : EUR 46.40 US$ 50.10
UDC 316.2Supek, R. * 32Supek, R.
Anotation In seven hundred pages, through the biography of the doyen of sociology Rudi Supek, due to his role in creating (and sometimes opposing) the policy of the Union of Communists of Yugoslavia and Croatia, the reader gets a very detailed insight into the state of science (sociology) during the post-war period, into the state of the "spirit" of the party intelligentsia, an insight into the ideological, ideological, personnel and "structural" connection between party politics and scientific activity in general. With such a comprehensive, deep and critical picture of the intellectual climate of the narrower and wider intellectual circle of political leaders in the socialist era, Pandžić's work deserves our respect and exceptional attention. As Supek's biography goes back to an earlier period, the author's very interesting historical analyzes of the period before and during the Second World War should be added to that central and most important part of the book.

ISBN 9789531635530 : EUR 21.30 US$ 23.00
UDC 94(497.583-37Imotski)"1717"
Anotation The collection gathers works that were exhibited at the meeting in Imotski in 2017 on the occasion of the 300th anniversary of the liberation of Imotski from the Ottomans. The subject matter of the anthology is not narrowly determined by the event itself, but a wider context than the event itself, such as the influence on literature, both popular and artistic, spatial-political changes, social changes, modernization processes, up to historical-artistic topics is covered.

ISBN 9789538195372 : EUR 32.10 US$ 34.60
UDC 140.8 * 1Paić, Ž.
Anotation Žarko Paić's new book deserves exceptional attention from the academic public in the field of social sciences and humanities, but also much more widely because the way of telling is personalized, which means that in the form of correspondence, real and fictitious, interviews and records as essays, fragments, comments, book reviews and critical reflections Paić attractively, stylistically challenging and argumentatively ambiguous shows why his "case" and his "existential freedom" of thinking outside and beyond any current is the best proof of the thesis that authenticity it comes from the unity of thinking, writing and life itself.

 UDC 316.723-058.5(497.5-21)(091) * 364(497.5)"18"
 Anotation The papers in this collection deal with topics related to the social history of Banska Hrvatska at the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries. Although the emphasis is placed on marginal social groups - Roma, vagrants, mentally ill, prisoners, prostitutes, etc. - part of the works deals with socio-historical problems in a broader sense, such as the prevalence of anti-Semitism at the end of the 19th century, alcoholism, war desertion, etc. All contributions published in the collection are the result of years of research by a few historians specializing in these topics.

 Anotation The book provides a scientific analysis of ancient epigraphic monuments that were once in the possession of Dmina Papalića. We learn about them through Marko Marulić's work "In epigrammata priscorum commentarius", which includes these inscriptions. In addition to the epigraphic analysis, the book also includes a translation of Marko Marulić's Latin text with which he commented and interpreted the epigraphic monuments originating from Salona. Marulić's work had not been printed before, and the section on the Salonitan inscriptions was brought, translated and commented on here for the first time.

 Anotation Vilović, Đuro, Croatian writer and publicist. He studied theology in Zadar. Year In 1913 he was ordained a priest and then went to Vienna to study philosophy. After returning to Croatia, he served in Međimurje, but soon left the priesthood and later worked mainly as a journalist in Zagreb and Belgrade dailies. A former rightist and Croatian nationalist, he became a national renegade and joined the Chetnik movement. He was one of D. Mihailović's close associates, for which he was sentenced to 7 years in prison in 1946. After serving his sentence, he lived in Bjelovar. Vilović was one of the most widely read and controversial writers of Croatian interwar literature.

 Anotation The free royal city of Bihać until the Ottoman conquest in 1592 was one of the most important urban and sociopolitical centers of the Croatian space at the time. Exceptionally positioned along an important line of communication that connected the Adriatic and Pannonian areas, situated on the course of the Una river, protected by mountains and well populated and fortified, Bihać soon became an important anti-Ottoman military center.

 Anotation The main focus of the book is Yugoslav-Chinese relations during the Cold War. While the central part of the book focuses on the period of détente, from 1969 to 1980, the broad introduction covers earlier decades as well, thus rounding off the overview of Yugoslav-Chinese ties to the period 1945-1980. This makes it the most complete review in historiography so far.

 Anotation The book provides an account of the actions of the communist repressive apparatus against the jails that helped members of the Croatian anti-communist guerrillas. By reining in the Jatak, the royal resistance of the members of the said guerrillas was broken and the process of establishing the communist government in Herzegovina was completed. What gives additional symbolism and significance to the communist resistance is the fact that the core of the massacre was made up of women, i.e. mothers whose husbands and sons were killed as members of the NDH Armed Forces at Bleiburg and the Way of the Cross, and girls of anti-communist guerrillas who hid in the mountains and forests, as well as their sisters. The book presents the testimonies of women prisoners who were cruelly tortured in communist prisons such as Čelovina (prison of the District Court in Mostar) and Zenica Penitentiary (KPD), and some were even killed.

 Anotation In many respects, the author has written an excellent vademecum, the content of which can be stimulating and useful not only for students and professors, but also for all those curious who, for scientific or general cultural interests, want to get to know Bošković's philosophical and at the same time natural science legacy, in addition to his merits in diplomacy, poetic achievements, endeavors in geodesy, building statics, archeology, and above all, to learn about his origin and Croatian ethnic affiliation. This is a comprehensive and methodologically exemplary book that provides not only a panoramic view of the unique significance of Ruđer Bošković, but also an overview (in the sense of looking through, plunging into the depth of the subject) into the origin, main features and reach of Bošković's scientific ideas. The author narrates Bošković's life and activities with ease, clearly and precisely explains Bošković's concepts and anticipations thanks to which he stepped a century, two or more ahead of his biographical time.

Anotation The topic of the book is the role of women in the cultural life of Zadar from the fall of the Venetian Republic to the end of the First World War. As due to legal, social and traditional restrictions, they could not appear in the field of dominant social activities, related to power, acquisition of property and disposal of property, their role was reduced to activities in culture and education. - With this book, we get an insight into the life and activities of Zadar printers, writers, painters, journalists, artists and musicians, i.e. a gallery of distinguished, but also lesser-known, self-effacing women who contributed to Zadar's literary, cultural and social life in this long period of the 19th century.

Anotation This volume brings forth five completely preserved muster rolls of the Military Border of Slavonia (and Petrinja) made in 1577, 1630, 1644, 1651 and 1678, and kept in the Steiermärkisches Landesarchiv in Graz. Muster rolls ensure a systematic and complete insight into the structure and military organization of each border section; number, function, salaries, place of service, and status of all paid soldiers and officers. Names and surnames of each individual soldier provide an insight into the ethnic structure of the military and into the assimilation of soldiers into the native, Kajakavian population of the region. The volume also provides basic methodology for the use of registers, primary analysis of data, and notes on terminology, which can serve as a good starting point for future researchers.

Anotation Eric Ušić's book examines the evolution, that is, the development of political graffiti in Istria from the Second World War and the immediate aftermath. Until recently, extremely poorly researched, very poorly mapped and only partially interpreted, the corpus of these graffiti is now well known, mapped and mostly explained. The work presents an astonishing amount of new quantitative and qualitative data and related analytical procedures, demonstrates the author's excellence in visual anthropology and cultural studies, but goes beyond that in his masterful use of a broad-based methodological tool.

 Anotation The Moliško Croatian community represents the impact of migration on the language in a special way. At the same time, it opens up the possibility of considering new ways of using languages that are categorized as minority, and in many cases endangered. In her research, the authors deal with the circumstances and factors that define the Moliko Croatian community today in a linguistic, social and cultural sense, with a special emphasis on the influence of discourses, historical and contemporary, public and private, on the way in which our speakers perceive their language, on the linguistic attitudes of the speakers towards different parts of their complex language repertoires, and on the beliefs that largely determine language practices, but also creative efforts to preserve their language

 Anotation In the book Vlast i pravopis, Krešimir Mićanović presents the history of Croatian spelling from the middle of the 19th century to the end of 1990, as well as the linguistic and political circumstances in which the spelling book was given the status of official spelling by the intervention of the authorities. Intriguingly and skilfully written, the book Vlast i pravopis brings numerous new perspectives on how the processes of shaping Croatian orthographic norms took place and shows the often complex and intricate relationship between politics and philology.

In the first part, congratulations are mostly addressed to theater people, but also to friends and colleagues for anniversaries of life and work, or for some other, but special occasion. In the second part, there are farewells, also to theater people, friends and associates who are no longer with us, and memories of them. Both texts have in common the desire to outline, as far as possible in such short texts, the artistic personalities of the people in question, to indicate their place in Croatian theatrical, academic and cultural life,

Detoni Dujmić and M. Solara, about the place and fate of I. Andrić in Croatian culture and literary science, followed by extensive conversations with prominent names in contemporary Croatian literature (I. Aralica, R. Cvetnić, M. Šur Puhlovski, H. Hitrec and D. Jelačić Bužimski) in which through intriguing questions and interesting answers we learn a lot of unknown facts about Croatian literature and culture in the last half century.

Description 186 str. ; 20 cm.
ISBN 9789533343525 : EUR 21.30 US$ 23.00
Anotation Bečki roman or the story of the case of doctor Pavle Marić - "The Hunter from Hirschendorf" is a painful and not at all flattering study of the Central European mentality in which, prompted by recent events from his own life, Dragan Velikić dissects the deeply questionable values of his favorite myth of the polished ("washed") of Mitteleurope. . Filigree woven from several different angles, the novel tells the story of the relationship between the individual and society and the reach of his freedom within the rigidity of the state-legal system, the nucleus of which is the family.

 Impresum Zagreb : Fraktura, 2025.
 Description 168 str. ; 21 cm.
 ISBN 9789533587912 : EUR 19.10 US$ 20.60
 Anotation In wartime Sarajevo, where snipers and grenades became everyday, young Feđa Štukan shot at an enemy soldier with a sniper while on guard and, by some crazy luck, missed. From that moment his incredible life story begins.
 On this unpredictable flight, the actor, who as a boy dreamed of becoming a pilot, writes not only about wrestling with his demons and attempts to get out of the vicious cycle of self-destruction and heroin addiction, but also about the necessity of fighting for one's ideals. Štukan mercilessly and honestly portrays war and post-war Bosnia destroyed by political struggles and corruption.

 Anotation The novel "Crno tijelo" tells about one of the darkest periods of Croatian history, but at the center of it is the love and family story of small, ordinary people, above all the young Sida Brombauer and her professor of mathematics and physics, a certain Stjepan, with whom Sida will fall madly in love. . But their love and fate, as well as the fates of so many others, will become hostages of the political and social system resulting from the chaos of war.

 Description 200 str. ; 28 cm.
 ISBN 9789533588018 : EUR 21.30 US$ 23.00
 Anotation Ivana Bodrožić's new collection of stories "Fiction" is unlike any other book about women. Fiction, a book of stories deeply connected by a fine narrative armature, brings sixteen truths about women who realize their victories and defeats in everyday life, at the same time trying to answer the central question of literature: what is the fiction we believe in, and what is the reality that shapes and breaks us? In that gap, stories truer than reality emerge, when the heroines are alone in the car, when they are raising children, worried about the climate collapse, anxious in the anonymity of the virtual world, when they are dancing on the pole, waiting for a moment of pleasure, hijacking the language and the area of sexuality, thinking about their age or gossiping about their colleagues.

 Impresum Zagreb : Beletra, 2024.
 Description 192 str. ; 21 cm.
 ISBN 9789538209581 : EUR 21.30 US$ 23.00
 Anotation Relying to some extent on the atmosphere of his previous novel "Noon in Perast", the writer searches for the meaning of a kind of repchage of the long-ago beginning of love that was not destined to spread its wings at the time of its creation, deliberately leaving unanswered the question of whether the unfulfilled can be reached at the (seemingly) best moment by invoking Kairos in autumn when excitement experiences the fate of fallen leaves.

Author Rudan, Vedrana
 Title Muškarac u grlu
 Impresum Zagreb : V.B.Z., 2024.
 Description 172 str. ; 20 cm.
 ISBN 9789535207849 : EUR 20.30 US$ 21.90
 Anotation In Muškarac u grlu (The Man in the Throat), the author writes two narrative streams in parallel. In one, we follow how forty-six-year-old Ksenija welcomes the New Year with her young lover; he would make love, but she doesn't really like that, so she sabotages his attempts in every possible way. In parallel, we read her conversation with her ex-husband, for whom she clearly still cares more than the young man next to her. Both stories show how relationships between men and women are entwined with misunderstandings, wrong assumptions, burdened by different inherited values, different life situations in which each of the two involved finds themselves, and how difficult it is to maintain a relationship even when two love each other.

 Impresum Zagreb : Hena com, 2024.
 Description 247 str. ; 22 cm.
 ISBN 9789532594973 : EUR 21.20 US$ 22.90
 Anotation Papir tvoje kože (The paper of your skin) is read slowly and attentively, its inner tension pushes the reader to discover what really happened, who is speaking and who is writing. The text becomes a space for what was tried to be forgotten, but the question remains whether the memory of someone else's life can protect from the trauma of one's own.

 Title Potpis i druge priče
 Impresum Zagreb : Disput, 2024.
 Description 151 str. ; 21 cm.
 ISBN 9789532605051 : EUR 19.10 US$ 20.60
 Anotation Potpis i druge priče (Signature and other stories) is the second collection of short stories by Kristina Gavran. In this book, the author brings stories about migration, love, death, violence in the family, hypocrisy in society and politics. Although thematically and stylistically different, the stories are connected by the author's interest in plunging into human imperfection, escaping from ourselves, pretending that we are better than we are, but also in the small joys we bring to each other. At the same time, pessimism is seasoned with humor, and optimism is questioned through skillful turns that happen to her unusual characters.

 Title Prešućeni jezik : buletini o nečujnome
 Impresum Zagreb : V.B.Z., 2024.
 Description 226 str. ; 20 cm.
 ISBN 9789535207788 : EUR 22.60 US$ 24.40
 Anotation Prešućeni jezik (The silenced language) is the language of feminine power rising from the ashes. Tomica Šćavina pronounces the forbidden, strongly shakes the shackles of religious dogmas and gives back to women the right to all the luxury of their inner lives carried by the long-suppressed female libido. Combining lyrical refinement with strong psychological insights, lavish inner monologues with sensual descriptions, fantasy with island everyday life, Tomica Šćavina has created a Dalmatian form of magical realism with this novel.

 Title Selfie : zbirka priča
 Impresum Zagreb : Hena com, 2025.
 Description 136 str. ; 22 cm.
 ISBN 9789532594997 : EUR 21.20 US$ 22.90
 Anotation Karmela Špoljarić's collection of stories explores the phenomenon of self-portraits as a symbolic mirror of contemporary society, revealing the destinies of characters hidden behind bright frames. Each story explores different aspects of life, where reality and illusion collide in the vastness of the digital world. Minimalism, associativeness and symbolism are recognizable features of the author's style, and in this collection these features come to the fore through a subtle exploration of the dark sides of the Internet - alienation, the construction of false identities and the longing for acceptance, which we often pay for with emotional losses.

 Anotation The text is basically divided into three larger units (Ontology of animation, Aesthetics of animation and Application of animation), and each of them is divided into shorter chapters. The division is arbitrary, and it starts from the assumption that the ontology of animation concerns the essence that makes animation different from other visual phenomena; The aesthetics of animation has something to do with the concretization of animation in the form of an animated film, and our judgment of terms such as the so-called "possible world", narration, movement and space or characters; the application of animation considers what happens with it in other media and genres, such as television video, advertising or artificial reality.

 Anotation With a representative selection of around 80 masterpieces of Hungarian painting of the 19th century from the permanent collection of the most important museum institutions in Hungary (the Museum of Fine Arts and the Hungarian National Gallery), the exhibition presents the golden age of Hungarian painting in a broad stylistic and thematic section of the period through the works of famous artists. Hungarian artists were joined by Croatian artists of the second half of the 19th century who laid the foundations for the development of painting modernism in Croatia. The selected artists in the Hungarian and Croatian selection and their works testify to a unique period of cultural prosperity when Vienna, Budapest and even Zagreb became real cultural capitals and how local tastes and themes came to life under European influences, creating the diversity so characteristic of the art of Central Europe.

 Anotation The monograph Ivan Picelj (1924-2011) tells about the life and work of this painter, graphic artist and designer, one of the most significant and influential Croatian artists of the second half of the 20th century. Ivan Picelj was an author who created his art and influenced key changes in our art scene by promoting abstract art in the early fifties. During the 1960s, Picelj belonged to a group of artists who exhibited at New Tendencies exhibitions, presenting constructivist and kinetic art. Despite all this, it has not been published to date. He was extremely active and committed to his goal - the realization of active art (as he defined it in his manifesto from 1962), art that affects all segments of life. He has been active since the 1950s, both on the domestic and international scene, exhibiting with the world's greatest constructivist artists.
